TAKING THE SOUTHERN ROUTE.

The San Francisco Bulletin has a long article on the overland export trade for March. During that month 1,138 cars were loaded with freight at San Francisco and interior points in the State for the East. It is worthy of note that most of these cars took the southern route through Arizona. The number of pounds shipped by the southern route was 17,190,600 as against 5,574,900 by the Central Pacific.

The through route by way of Arizona and New Mexico has now been open for about a year. The connection between the Southern Pacific Railroad Company and the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad Company was made at Deming, New Mexico, March, 1891. Since then there have been two through lines between San Francisco and New York. Other connections are now being made. For the first few months, very little freight took the southern route, and no classification for the press was made in the reports until September, 1891, and then it was in response to a request from the Bulletin office. The diversion of freight in favor of the southern route has been notable, as will be seen by the following reference to the monthly totals after the classification was observed:

	Central Pacific.	Southern Pacific.
Sept, 1891, lbs	19,284,500	5,863,000
October	28,877,400	4,471,340
November	16,503,600	4,171,500
December	10,748,000	2,587,500
January, 1892...	6,124,700	5,738,700
February.....	4,650,100	15,337,500
March.....	5,574,900	17,190,700

The conditions have been practically reversed during the above interval. Last month nearly as much freight was sent by the Southern Pacific as was sent by the Central Pacific last September, while the traffic by the Central Pacific was reduced to the proportions of the Southern Pacific eight months ago. In the past two months, at least, there has been a thorough revolution in the route taken by freight from California by rail. The aggregate volume is about the same as at this time last year, the total shipments for March, 1891, being 20,932,600 lbs. It is hardly possible that the southern route will be built up at the expense of the northern. The disturbance is probably only local and temporary, and is chiefly due to the shipments of flour and wheat by the southern route—a new element of business. Should this trade become permanent, it will, of course, give the southern route a prominence not possible at present on the northern route.

NEW STATES.

Among the bills before Congress that, when reached, will surely provoke a hotly partisan struggle, is that for the admission of Dakota as a State. There is a great deal of bitterness among the Dakotans about this matter, and the Democrats will fight against admission on strict party grounds. Washington Territory, through its delegate, Mr. Brents, is also moving for admission. The Eureka Leader says the Democrats will oppose that, too. Their main argument in both cases is that these Territories have not yet grown to the proper stature of States. That is their ostensible argument; the real animus of their opposition is the assumption that Dakota and Washington would, as States, cast Republican votes in the Electoral College and send four more Republicans to the United States Senate.

It is interesting in view of the allegation that these Territories are not large enough for admission, to glance at the precedents for State making. The Boston Traveler furnishes some interesting figures. Illinois was admitted in 1818. Her population, as shown by the census then last taken, was 12,282. Mississippi, admitted in 1817, had a population, by the preceding census, of 40,352, including the population of Alabama. Arkansas was admitted in 1836, with 30,338 inhabitants according to the census last taken. Oregon's last census before her admission in 1859, gave her a population of 13,291, which at the next enumeration had increased to 52,495. Nebraska came in in 1867, and the last preceding count gave her 28,840 people; the next census showed her to have a population of 122,992. The fact is, therefore, that both Dakota and Washington Territories have larger populations than the average on which Territories have been heretofore admitted. Washington Territory according to the census of 1880, contained 75,120 people, and its accessions since that time have been steady and large. Dakota, at the last census taking, had a population of 135,177, and her growth has been going on by leaps and bounds ever since. Still the impression is that the bill for the admission of Dakota is very likely to fail at this session. It will require the full vote of the Republican side of the Senate, and the vote of President Davis besides.

GLORIOUS CALIFORNIA.

All accounts of what all eyes have seen go to confirm the conclusion that California was never handsomer in field and orchard than at the present time. The prolonged chill and drouth of the early Winter effectually checked vegetation, and the landscape was bare and dreary. Then came the rain and the warm sunshine, and, as if by magic, the green covered the hillsides, the fields and the roadsides, and the many hues of blooming fruit trees transformed the orchards into solid acres of bouquets. The Pacific Rural Press says "those who have known the country for years have pronounced the change, in its rapidity and completeness, the most wonderful and beautiful they ever beheld. And the State is putting on her best attire for industry as well as for esthetics. The preparations for haying and harvesting and arrangements to handle the orchard and vineyard products are filling the time of the workers. The fruit rejoices still in immunity from heavy frosts, and the grain has escaped prolonged northers, though some blasts of short duration have drawn upon the moisture. The outlook is a fairly good one on the average, and in some respects most promising. As we write the mingled rain drops and sun rays insure the growing weather which is so delightful to the farmer's heart." This opinion is confirmed by what the Sacramento Bee says of the appearance of the Capital City. We quote: "Sacramento to-day can boast of being the prettiest city in the State, as she always is at this season of the year. The air is pure and fresh, the ground is carpeted with green, the trees are clothed in beautiful mantles, the birds are caroling and all nature smiles her sweetest."

THE POND BILL.

We have not the space to spare to publish the full text of the liquor tax bill passed by the Ohio General Assembly and now the law known as the Pond Bill, which, it is said, contributed largely to the defeat of the Republicans in the recent elections held in that State. The gist of the bill is in the first two sections which impose conditions objectionable to those engaged in the traffic of intoxicating liquors. The yearly license is increased to range from $100 to $300, and in addition thereto a bond in the sum of $1,000 is required.

Kirkwood for Congress.

The Chicago Tribune's Cedar Rapids special says: "Kirkwood for Congress" is the prevailing sentiment of the fifth district of Iowa, and the probabilities are that he is the coming man. Sent to Washington in response to a call from the lamented Garfield, he has just been returned, labeled "Not wanted by the stalwarts," and now the people propose to send him back to a position as near like that which he left for the Interior Secretaryship as possible, not only to show the stalwarts that Iowa has faith in her old war Governor, above all their lordships, but more for the reason that he is one of the greatest and grandest representatives the Hawkeye State ever had.

What Easter Eggs Mean.

The New York Herald says the custom of eating eggs on Easter Sunday symbolizes the resurrection, and the practice of coloring Easter eggs red is an allusion to the blood of redemption. The custom, however, dates back to the ancient Hindus, Jews, Persians, and Egyptians, and it was then symbolical of the egg from which, according to ancient tradition, the earth itself was hatched. It may, however, have been derived from springing up of new life in nature, which is displayed in the Easter season.

Seattle's Prosperity.

If the business of the local postoffice is any guide, Seattle is growing with great rapidity. The sales of stamps amounted to $1,250 55 during the quarter ending September 30, 1891, and to $1,549 60 during the quarter ending December 30, 1891. During the last quarter ending March 31, 1892, the sales reached the figures of $1,767 17. The county is now finishing a new Court-house, and the city is about to erect a $25,000 school house, while the street work planned for 1892 cannot be done for less than $40,000.

Mrs. Garfield is ahead and some of the other women are mad. The Women's Silk Culture Association of the United States are making a dress for Mrs. Garfield which will contain silk from fourteen different States.

The Central Pacific Railroad Company is to soon erect a roundhouse in West Oakland, which will be the largest in the State. It will be built of brick, and will contain stalls for sixty engines.

Senator Jones and Miller declare that no caucus can tie them up on the Chinese question.

Those Arizona Indians ought to be shot down like dogs.

REPUBLICANS SPEAK PLAINLY TO THE CHIEF MAGISTRATE.

The Curse of Chinese Immigration Ably Depicted—Devastating Human Grasshoppers—Chinese Must Not Destroy this Great Republic.

The following is the full text of the petition of the Republican State Central Committee of California to the President of the United States, in favor of the passage of anti-Chinese legislation. It is well worthy of perusal by all citizens:

Chester A. Arthur, President of the United States, Honored Sir: As Republicans and Americans, we, residents of California and the Pacific coast, wish, in all frankness, confidence and friendship, to present, for your earnest consideration some reflections upon the subject of Chinese immigration.

The most anxious, intense and profound feelings prevail here among all classes, constraining us to state briefly the reason for a well settled conviction adverse to Chinese immigration, founded on an intimate knowledge of their habits and character for about a quarter of a century.

Unlike our people in form and feature, in habit and character, tutored in the rites of a pagan religion, and disciplined under a cruel code by a despotic government, they are not qualified for the exercise of the rights or duties of American citizens, or for maintaining a government of which Adams, Jefferson, Otis, Washington and their compeers were the founders, and from their tenacity and inflexibility of nature, we believe they never can become loyal citizens of the United States.

THEY HAVE NO INTEREST OR CARE FOR OUR NAME,

Our honor, our laws, our government, or our people. Patriotism, the love of liberty, of a Republican form of government, of our free institutions and of our country are sentiments to them unknown.

Countless millions of this strange race has for unnumbered ages been shut up in the narrow confines of their everlasting walls, and have been compelled constantly and painfully, under pressure of cold and hunger, to battle for both food and niment. By stern necessity they have been bred and disciplined in the most severe methods of self-denial and to perform the greatest amount of labor with the least possible expenditure in food, in clothing, and in shelter. Many accept the dog's kennel for lodgment, and the dog's food for sustenance, with relish and satisfaction.

In their own country they exist in numbers so vast as to be computed by the hundred millions. Our coast is accessible and transportation cheap, and wages many times greater than in Peking and Canton. With them wages are extremely low, and labor abundant and population dense.

The natural temptations and inducements for them

TO VOLUNTARILY COLONIZE WITHIN OUR BORDERS

Are manifold, and to these may be added the power of that mercenary spirit that speculates in the labor and servitude of those too poor to pay the lowest rates of coolie passage. Thus greed gave rise to the coolie slave trade that has annually landed a slavish, brutish, idolatrous horde upon our shores.

These conditions and causes have brought multitudes of this strange people to our shores and imperiled every class and every interest. They come among us without wives or children to support, with no schools or churches to sustain, with no social rank to maintain, no character to assert, and no government to vindicate or defend.

Many years of observation and experience have taught us to abhor the idea of subjecting our fellow countrymen—with families to educate, clothe and supply, with a position in society to maintain, with a government to defend and support—to competition for subsistence and existence with the Asiatic labor machines.

And this is the mechanism now placed in competition with the American laborer, the child of the republic.

With such physical conditions, and with their aptitudes, they are enabled to supplant our own people in all trades and departments of manual labor; and

THE DESTRUCTION OF ONE CLASS OF SOCIETY.

Like the destruction of one member of the body, involves all the rest in the calamity.

Year after year we have witnessed the different trades surrendered to these Mongolians, until we are alarmed at the defenseless and perilous condition of our society and people.

They invade American interests and institutions and society itself with insidious weapons, more destructive than shot or shell. And when their speculations and spoliations are complete their cash and bones find a common receptacle in the land of Job.

The places occupied by the Chinese in our cities and towns lose all utility and value, except for their own purposes; and from these infected spots our population recedes as from a loathsome nuisance, and on every side property shrinks largely in value, or loses it entirely. Like Kansas grasshoppers, the Chinese mark their places and progress with desolation—like the grasshopper, he survives at the expense of the country.

Would we not judge a parent pusillanimous, cruel and inhuman, who would allow some mercenary adventurers, by wile or art or adventurous circumstance, to force a dutiful son from the fireside and home of his youth, and cast him upon the cold charity of the world for precarious existence; and is a nation any the less guilty that permits its own citizens, aye, defenders, to be supplanted, displaced and driven forth wanderers

BY A FOREIGN PAGAN HORDE, DEFICIENT IN PATRIOTISM

And all of the prerequisites of American citizenship?

It ought not to be, it cannot be, that this paternal and beneficent and powerful government will suffer its own children, its defenders, its own laboring masses, largely the hope and strength of the republic, its reliance in cases of invasion and dire necessity, to be impoverished and ruined by a false spirit of utilitarianism, or sacrificed to the Moloch of cheap labor.

We cannot but regard such a policy as an act of injustice and cruelty to our own people, calculated to entail upon us disasters and calamities of the most alarming and shocking nature.

May heaven avert the deserved vengeance that we fear will visit any nation that commits or tolerates such a crime against its own people.

History has too often taught us that when an unemployed and demoralized people in great cities become a starving people, as has often happened, and surely will again, when the surging masses are maddened with want, suffering and a sense of injustice, then an avenging justice, armed with disorder, anarchy and revolution, will make the skies lurid with conflagration of cities, and the streets red with human gore.

THE REPUBLICAN PARTY SPRANG INTO EXISTENCE

In opposition to slave importation, slave labor and the extension of slavery.

For many years she has battled manfully for the protection and elevation of the American laborer, and in his cause she has won sublime triumphs and unfading laurels. The Republican party cannot now, in disregard of her cardinal principles, afford to favor or permit the importation of coolie slaves, those who are insensible to their condition and indifferent to their fate, and thereby degrade labor or reduce the meannest citizen of this republic to a like servile condition.

We might point to our Clays, our Lincolns and our Garfields, and thousands of our illustrious countrymen, and say to you that unrestricted Mongolian immigration will hereafter make the production of such character impossible in this country. We might say, too, that the Republican party, with its long line of brilliant statesmen and heroes, loaded with honors and triumphs, and with the glory of

THE PROCLAMATION OF UNIVERSAL EMANCIPATION

Written upon its brow, could not survive with Chinese immigration as its watchword; but we make our appeal to you from higher considerations and loftier motives if possible, and we say that we do not believe that our institutions, our people, and liberty itself, on this continent can survive if this great evil remains unrestricted.

We are not indebted to China for our language, literature, arts, sciences, civilization, forms of government, laws or religion; and as she has done nothing to create this great republic, with its varied and mighty interests, neither she nor her people should be allowed to do anything to destroy it.

A PERVANT PRAYER.

We implore you, the honored Chief Magistrate of our people, by every interest and consideration that can be addressed to the President of this majestic republic—by every consideration dear to an American citizen proud of the past history of his country, and anxious for her future advancement and renown—by the recollection that this nation was begotten in the throes of the revolution, baptized in the blood of an innumerable host of patriots, has been maintained and transmitted at an immense cost of blood and treasure—we beseech you, by all of these reflections and incentives, in behalf of both the rich and the poor—all classes, in behalf of the present and future generations, to disregard all minor objections and considerations, and to sanction any measure passed by Congress that has for its object the supreme merit of American Protection, and thereby preserve both our people and the republic.

Maggie Mitchell's Dream.

Maggie Mitchell recently related the following dream to a newspaper interviewer: "I dreamed on that memorable night that I saw John Wilkes Booth leap from the private box of the President, at Ford's Theater, to the stage. He was dressed as usual, with inimitable taste and neatness. He wore a short Spanish cloak, lined with crimson satin. As he leaped on to the stage from the box, hurriedly and excitedly, his cloak flew open and disclosed a little white poodle dog under his arm. He ran past me and made his exit by the identical door through which he did actually escape after committing the horrible deed. I was telling my dream the next morning to my sister Mary and a party of select friends while eating our breakfast. I was engaged in telling my dream, and before getting through with the remarkable details the head waiter came up to us with a scared look on his face. We were interrupted by his asking us if we had heard the news. He then said that President Lincoln had been shot the night before; and in ten minutes we were all electrified with the astounding news that the assassin was John Wilkes Booth, about whom we were talking when the head waiter first interrupted our chat at the table. It made a lasting impression on me. I have often told it to my friends, and it is strange it never got into the papers, because every one who heard me telling my dream, before we heard the news from Washington, considered it remarkable and wondrous from its astounding coincidences."

How SPINNER BECAME FAMOUS.—In conversation recently General Francis E. Spinner told how he adopted that marvelous signature of his. "It was when I was practicing law in Herkimer county," he said, "years ago—well, let me see—it was in 1860. Judge Osborn was my law partner. I was sorrowing with my pen at my desk one day, and wrote my name several times in that manner. Osborn happened to see it. He said, 'Hello, old fishhooks, I'll bet you can't do that again.' I said, 'I bet I can,' and I did. I adopted it as my signature then, and I have written my name in that way ever since."

The Journal thinks that Reno should be represented in the anti-Chinese Convention, to be held at San Francisco. Let the tar bucket brigade attend in force. Perhaps their presence will reconcile the people of the Bay City to the Mongolian infliction.—[Ogden Pilot.

The Rush for Wood River.

A dispatch from Hailey says: "The first freight received on Wood River this season came in to-day from Kelton. There were two wagons drawn by eight horses, carrying four tons. The teams were only 14 days on the road, including nearly three days delay at the crossing of the Snake river, owing to contrary winds. Such a quick trip at this unfavorable season proves that the roads are in good condition, and gives cause for general rejoicing here. The arrivals already average about 30 a day, and the rush has not commenced. All the stage roads to Wood River are lined with people coming in on foot, horseback, in wagons, and every possible way. The bullion and ore shipments from Wood River for the seven months ending December 1, 1881, exceeded $112,000. The shipments during the same time this year will exceed $3,000,000."

Cassidy's Mining Bill Passed.

In the House of Representatives Thursday Mr. Cassidy obtained unanimous consent to have considered the bill amending the United States mining laws so as to allow non-resident adverse claimants to make certain affidavits in case of application for patents through their agents or attorneys. In fact, he stated that the object of the amendment was to place non-resident applicants for patents and adverse claimants on an equal footing in proceedings relative to acquisition of United States patents to mineral lands. It made no change in the law further than in the manner of procedure in certain cases. It was more in the nature of a convenience for non-resident mine owners than anything else. The bill was passed.

A Great Stock of Clothing.

M. Nathan finally got in the store most of his new stock of Spring and Summer clothing, and it certainly is a great stock, both in quality and quantity, embracing everything that is fine and stylish in gentlemen's wear, in dress, business and light suits, furnishing goods, hats, trunks, valises, and such other goods as go to make up a general clothing emporium. That stock of goods is sure to attract customers, as styles and prices are such as will command patronage.

The Carrick Bond Case.

Yesterday morning Judge Rising denied the motion made by counsel on behalf of the State and county, that judgment be entered for the plaintiff in the suit against B. H. Carrick and his bondsmen, notwithstanding the verdict of the jury in favor of the defendants. It was ordered that judgment for the defendants be entered. The attorneys for the State and county will now move for a new trial, and if that is denied an appeal to the Supreme Court will be taken.

Fire at the Toll-House.

Delegates.

At the meeting in the Justice Court rooms yesterday afternoon, Mr. T. V. Juhen was chosen President and Mr. Roger Johnson, Secretary. Dr. H. H. Hogan, Gen. J. B. Kittrell and R. P. M. Greeley, were selected to represent Reno at the Anti-Chinese Convention to-morrow in San Francisco.

Good Weather Predicted.

The labor demonstration in Philadelphia against the veto of the Chinese bill is spoken of by the journals there as having created a profound impression. Owing to the tariff question the laboring men of Philadelphia are largely Republicans in politics.

A delegation from New Albany, Ind., accompanied by Senator Harrison, called on ex-Secretary Blaine last Thursday evening and invited him to deliver the oration at that place on Decoration day. Blaine, after thanking them for the compliment, declined, stating that he expected to be in Europe before the 30th of May.

At Carson an anti-Chinese meeting was held Friday night. Chief Justice Leonard (Rep.) and Major Garrard (Dem.) presided. The meeting was largely attended and very enthusiastic. Jasper Babcock (Rep.) and T. W. Healy (Dem.) were chosen delegates to the Anti-Chinese Convention at San Francisco.

The President's message relating to the levees and Mississippi river is regarded as an extremely shrewd stroke to gain strength in the South, and it will be the keynote for the Republicans in Congress to manifest a liberal policy toward the South.

THE HIGHEST MINE.—The highest mine in the United States, and probably in the world, is the Present Help, situated on Mount Lincoln, in the main range of the Rocky Mountains, in Park county, Col. According to Professor Hayden, Mount Lincoln has an altitude of 14,207 feet. The Present Help boarding house, built alongside of the entrance to the main drift, is about 200 yards away from the extreme summit of the mountain and 140 feet lower down. This leaves it 14,157 feet above sea level, and it is undoubtedly the highest inhabited house in the world.

Massachusetts will this Winter elect a successor to Senator Hoar. It is about time the latter were shelved with other fossils. He would make an excellent addition to a cabinet of Oriental curiosities.—Sac. Bee.

Sunset Cox, who is regarded by many of his party as the ablest Democrat in the House of Representatives, was led by his zeal in the Chinese debate to show the hand of the party. He made desperate efforts to secure the floor of the House for Rice, who he knew would speak against the new Chinese bill. He did this in order that the Republicans might be brought to task for opposing the bill. Like the majority of his party, he cared nothing himself for the failure or success of the bill, but he was intent on making party capital out of it, and in his eagerness to accomplish this he overshot the mark and gained nothing by his indecent exposure of narrow-minded partisanship.—S. F. Chronicle.
